In the Footsteps of Tennyson

INTRODUCTION

Starting from the quiet hamlet of Bag Enderby, the walks explore different aspects of the Wolds landscape, with both passing through Somersby, Tennyson's birthplace and home for the first twenty-eight years of his life.

No more evidence is needed that the Wolds landscape inspired the young Poet Laureate than the opening verse of The Lady of Shallott (1832).

BAG ENDERBY:

St Margaret's Church has nailed to its door a Danish shield boss found long ago in a nearby field. The church contains medieval glass, a rood screen and an ancient font, with depictions of Danish mythology carved upon it. George Clayton Tennyson, Alfred's father was rector of Bag Enderby and Somersby. Near the 18th century thatched Ivy House Farm stands the former dairy barns and the quarry, which supplied the stone for the church.

The hollow tree stump at the top of the village is known as 'The Poets Tree'; the Tennyson children allegedly played on its long, low branch.

SOMERSBY:

Somersby House, the cream-coloured building in the centre of the hamlet was home to the Tennyson family from 1808 to 1837. Alfred was born here on August 6th, 1809, and spent his childhood exploring the countryside along with his 10 siblings. It is now a private home and only opens to the public on special occasions. The castellated Grange next door was home to the landowners of the time. During restoration work carried out in 2015, a graffiti was uncovered in the belfry of St. Margaret's. Carved into stone, it simply says 'AT 1837', the year the Tennysons left.

The most diverse collection of Tennyson's books, papers and belongings is at the Tennyson Research Centre, Lincolnshire Archives, Lincoln - tennyson@lincolnshire.gov.uk

On either side the river lie
Long fields of barley and of rye;
That clothe the wold and meet the sky;
And thro' the field the road runs by
To many-towered Camelot;

Two circular walks of 2 and 5½ miles through the countryside surrounding Bag Enderby and Somersby; the inspiration for the early works of Alfred, Lord Tennyson.
The Route

Route One
1. Leave the churchyard past the notice board and the former rectory, Ferndale Manor, on your left. Follow the path alongside the matched Ivy House Farm on your left, with the old dairy and quarry on your right.
2. Follow footpath through fields to Somersby, passing over 4 sets of stiles. As you cross these fields and pastures enjoy views of the rear of both Somersby Grange and Somersby House.
3. Continue on the footpath through the farmyard and onto the lane where you turn left. St. Margaret's on your right is a 15th century church, with plenty of information on Alfred inside. Almost opposite the church is the castellated Somersby Grange and to its right the cream-coloured Somersby House, Tennyson’s birthplace.
4. Carry on down Bridge Road to the bridge over the brook. Turn around and view old redbrick Gomme’s Cottage built next to the ancient Holywell Wood before you head back up the hill, the way you came. Cross the stile on your left opposite Candleshoe Cottage, viewing Holywell Wood as you walk along to the farm cottages at Telford Road. Holywell Wood is not accessible now but the Tennyson children played here.

Route Two
1. Leave the churchyard through the yew tree tunnel and turn left onto Church Lane to Bridge Road, passing the old blacksmiths and White Cottage as you go.
2. Cross the road and follow Brinkhill Lane for approx. 1 mile then take the bridleway on the left and continue along the field edge with the hedge on your right.
3. Follow the path through the gap, with Snake Holt on your left, then continue uphill. Take the bridleway to the left, following the track to the left at Fox Covert, on example of ancient woodland.
4. Follow the sign to the right and walk through the yard of Warden Hill Farm, along the track and descend to join Telford Road at Somersby House Farm.
6. Leave the village along Bridge Road, dropping downhill to cross the brook. Take the next road left, continue along and take the next left to Stainsby.

Horsetails - A group of primitive native plants are all that remains of a much larger family that grew 300 million years ago during the Carboniferous period. Horsetails thrive in damp areas and reproduce by spores in the spring, and grow throughout the summer until the first frosts.

The bridge over the brook, the River Lyne, was built in 1827, the year Alfred died at Cambridge. The river runs through the meadows beyond Somersby House garden before flowing through Bag Endberby to Wainfleet and out to sea at Gibraltar Point. It is widely believed that the poem, The Brook was inspired by the River Lyne, the river that ran through Tennyson’s childhood...

I’ll shut the shutters, as I flow, To join the stream that flows, For men may come and men may go, But I go on forever.

The Lincolnshire Wolds

The Lincolnshire Wolds is a nationally important and cherished landscape. Most of it was designated an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) in 1973. Covering an area of 558 square kilometres or 216 square miles, the AONB contains the highest ground in eastern England between Yorkshire and Kent, rising to over 150m along its western edge. Rolling chalk hills and areas of sandstone and clay underlie this attractive landscape.

The Lincolnshire Wolds has been inhabited since prehistoric times and the appearance of the countryside today has been greatly influenced by past and present agricultural practices.

A Countryside Service helps to protect and enhance the landscape through partnership projects with local landowners, farmers, parish councils, businesses, and residents of the Wolds.
